PRESIDENT'S THOUGHTS

by William "Bill" Todd
Illinois PHCC President

This July celebrates America's 237th birthday. From 1776 until the present day, July 4th has been celebrated as the birth of American independence, with typical festivities ranging from fireworks, parades, and concerts to more casual family gatherings and barbecues. Independence Day to my family is about making our legacy in life of memories and growing a family to hold the same moral character and values that have been instilled upon me. We are given this liberty by those who put their lives on hold, some permanently to forward us this ability. Thank you to all who serve(d), and those affected by the lives laid down for OUR independence.

The July issue of the Illinois Master Plumber represents our Annual Membership Directory. The directory contains information on all Illinois PHCC contractor members, auxiliary members, associate members, plumbing inspector members, as well as, all local association information. I encourage you to take the time to look over the directory, which includes pertinent contact information for all the individuals that support our association. Please keep the directory for future reference. Contact the Illinois PHCC office if you are in need of additional copies.

I would also like to encourage you to mark your calendar for the PHCC National Connect 2013 Conference which will take place at the Rio All-Suite Hotel & Casino in Las Vegas on October 16-19, 2013. There's no better place than CONNECT 2013 on how you can reinvent your business for future success. Las Vegas is the city that never sleeps, offering limitless entertainment, world class dining, and endless shopping...plus amazing sites and activities in and around the city. Check the Las Vegas link on the PHCC website (www.phccweb.org/connect) for visitor information and a list of events, shows, and activities that will be happening during CONNECT 2013! I am looking forward to the Opening Session on Thursday, October 17 - The Edge of Innovation Separating the Frontrunners from the Stragglers. I am very eager to participate in these educational sessions. I hope to see you all there, joining me in gathering new innovative ideas to implement in our businesses!

I'd also like to take this time to remind you to join our construction industry colleagues in supporting IMSCA-PAC, The Illinois Mechanical & Specialty Contractors Association for their two upcoming fundraisers. IMSCA-PAC is hosting a "Day at the Races" event at Arlington Racetrack on August 22, 2013! In addition, they are selling raffle tickets for the opportunity to drive a real NASCAR racecar on the same super speedways the pros race on! The winning ticket will be drawn at the "Day at the Races" event. We appreciate your continued support of IMSCA-PAC!

"If I have seen further it is by standing upon the shoulders of Giants."
—Sir Isaac Newton.

I hope to see you all at our upcoming PHCC educational opportunities!

Best Regards,

William D. Todd

EPA WARNS AGAINST USE OF REFRIGERANT SUBSTITUTES

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is warning homeowners, propane manufacturers and sellers, home improvement contractors and air conditioning technicians of potential safety hazards related to the use of propane or other unapproved refrigerants in home air conditioning systems.

EPA is currently investigating instances where propane has been marketed and used as a substitute for HCFC-22 (R-22), a refrigerant that is widely used in home air conditioning systems.

Home air conditioning systems are not designed to handle propane or other similar flammable refrigerants. The use of these substances poses a potential fire or explosion hazard for homeowners and service technicians.

EPA is aware of incidents that have occurred both overseas and in the U.S. where individuals have been injured as a result of the use of propane and other unapproved refrigerants in air conditioning systems. We are investigating and will take enforcement actions where appropriate. Other names for these unapproved refrigerants include R-290, 22a, 22-A, R-22a, HC-22a, and CARE 40.

At this time, EPA has not approved the use of propane refrigerant or other hydrocarbon refrigerants in any type of air conditioner. Homeowners and technicians are strongly recommended to limit use of propane or other hydrocarbons to only those appliances specifically designed for these substances and that are properly marked to alert technicians that the equipment contains a flammable substance. EPA has approved the use of propane as a substitute refrigerant for R-22 in industrial process refrigeration systems and in new, stand-alone retail food refrigerators and freezers that are specifically designed to use flammable hydrocarbon refrigerants.

R-22 is being phased out of production and importation under the Montreal Protocol, an environmental treaty ratified by every country in the world designed to reduce and eventually eliminate the use of ozone depleting substances. EPA's Significant New Alternatives Policy (SNAP) Program has already listed numerous refrigerants with improved environmental, health and safety profiles and continues to evaluate other refrigerants that can be used to replace R-22 and other ozone-depleting substances.

More information about the EPA's SNAP program: <http://www.epa.gov/ozone/snap/>
More information about R-22a and alternatives for air conditioning: <http://www.epa.gov/ozone/snap/r22a.html>

ILLINOIS SMALL BUSINESS JOB CREATION TAX CREDIT

The Illinois Small Business Jobs Creation Tax Credit program provides small business owners and non-profits with an extra boost to grow their business in our state. After creating one or more new, full-time positions that meet the eligibility requirements, small businesses can register online to receive a $2,500 per job tax credit. Small businesses are defined as companies with 50 or fewer full-time employees. Even new start-ups hiring their first full-time employees in Illinois would be eligible to receive the tax credit.

Eligible jobs would be those new positions that were created between July 1, 2012 to June 30, 2016, the new positions must pay at least $10/hour or $18,200/annually and the position must be sustained for one full year from the hire date. DCEO (Illinois Department of Commerce & Economic Opportunity) has created an extremely user-friendly website which allows for an applicant to register both their business and their newly created job(s) from the comfort of their home or office. For complete information and to register both your business and your newly created jobs, please visit <https://jobstaxcredit.illinois.gov/default.aspx>.

ARE YOU READY FOR THE NEW NATIONAL LEAD LAW? HELP HAS ARRIVED AT WWW.GETTHELEADOUTPLUMBING.COM

The countdown is on: the federal “Reduction of Lead in Drinking Water Act” becomes effective January 4, 2014, and distributors, engineers, contractors, and code officials all need to start preparing now. To facilitate a smooth transition, The Get the Lead Out Plumbing Consortium is in place and ready to get you ready ... offering widespread education about the manufacture, distribution, and installation of Lead Free* plumbing products.

The Consortium – a cross-section of the plumbing industry comprised of leading trade associations and manufacturers – is offering a variety of resources that will help you prepare for this new law, which will make it illegal to sell or install pipes, fittings and fixtures in applications that convey water for human consumption that have a weighted average lead content exceeding 0.25% (the previous national standard was 8.0% maximum).

“This is a game changer,” says Roger Peugeot, vice chairman of the PHCC Educational Foundation. “There is a lot of stock out there in trucks and warehouses, which will need to be used by the end of 2013. The product also takes a different technique for soldering, which will involve training.”

Take Action Today!

To promote understanding of and compliance with the new law, the Consortium has developed a comprehensive web site, www.GetTheLeadOutPlumbing.com. Visit it today, and get all the facts, including:

- Interpretation and enforcement issues related to the new law.
- Information about Lead Free products, basis for Lead Free product selection and compliance, and material factors impacting the ability to solder Lead Free alloys effectively and solder-flux considerations.
- Upcoming training opportunities at industry meetings.
- Step-by-step action plans for distributors, engineers, contractors, and code officials on how to prepare for the federal Lead Free law.

*\*Lead Free refers to the wetted surface of pipe, fittings and fixtures in potable water systems that have a weighted average lead content  $\leq 0.25\%$  per the Safe Drinking Water Act (Sec. 1417) amended 1-4-2011 and other equivalent state regulations.*

This article is provided by the Get The Lead Out Plumbing Consortium. Members of the consortium include: American Society of Plumbing Engineers (ASPE), American Supply Association (ASA), International Association of Plumbing and Mechanical Officials (IAPMO), International Code Council (ICC), Legend Valve, Milwaukee Valve, NIBCO INC., Plumbing Heating Cooling Contractors - National Association (PHCC), PHCC Educational Foundation, Plumbing Manufacturers International (PMI), Reliance Worldwide, Viega, LLC, Watts Water Technologies.

INSECT BITES AND STINGS FACTSHEET

Another important ToolBox Talk brought to you by the Quality Service Contractors (QSC) – An Enhanced Service Group of PHCC, P.O. Box 6808, Falls Church, VA 22040.

Ph. 800-533-7694. Visit our website at:
<http://www.qsc-phcc.org>.

Each year, many workers are stung by insects while on the job. For most, these stings mean pain and discomfort generally lasting only a few hours. Symptoms may include redness, swelling, and itching at the site of the sting.

However, some people are allergic to insect stings. This means that their immune systems overreact to the venom injected by a stinging insect. After the first sting, the allergic person's body produces an allergic substance called Immunoglobulin E (IgE) antibody, which reacts with the insect venom. If the worker is stung again by an insect of the same or similar species, the insect venom interacts with the IgE antibody produced in response to the earlier sting. This triggers the release of histamine and other chemicals that cause allergic symptoms.

Symptoms of Severe Reactions

For a small number of people with severe venom allergy, stings may be life-threatening. This severe allergic reaction to insect stings is called anaphylaxis. It can involve many body organs and may develop rapidly. Symptoms of anaphylaxis may include itching and hives over large areas of the body, swelling in the throat or tongue, difficulty breathing, dizziness, stomach cramps, nausea, or diarrhea. In severe cases, a rapid fall in blood pressure may result in shock and loss of consciousness.

Anaphylaxis is a medical emergency, and may be fatal. If a worker experiences any of these symptoms after an insect sting, obtain emergency medical treatment immediately. After the symptoms are treated in the emergency room, the workers may need to obtain a referral to an allergist/immunologist to learn about treatment options.

Identifying Stinging Insects

Most sting reactions are caused by five types of insects. It is important to learn what they look like and where they live. Bites from mosquitoes, ticks, biting-flies, and some spiders can cause reactions, but are generally milder.

Yellow jackets are black with yellow markings, and are found in various climates. Their nests, which are made of paper-mâché material, are usually located underground but can sometimes be found in the walls of frame buildings, cracks in masonry or woodpiles.

Honeybees have a rounded, “fuzzy” body with dark brown coloring and yellow markings. Upon stinging, the honeybee usually leaves its barbed stinger in its victim and because of this may release more venom. Honeybees are non-aggressive and will only sting when provoked. However, Africanized honeybees, or so-called “killer bees” found in the southwestern United States and South and Central America, are more aggressive and may sting in swarms. Domesticated honeybees live in man-made hives, while wild honeybees live in colonies or “honeycombs” in hollow trees or cavities of buildings. Africanized honeybees may nest in holes in house frames, between fence posts in old tires or holes in the ground, or other partially protected sites.

Paper wasps' slender elongated bodies are black, brown, or red with yellow markings. Their nests are also made of a paper-like material that forms a circular comb of cells that opens downward. The nests are often located under eaves, behind shutters or in shrubs or woodpiles.

Hornets are black or brown with white, orange or yellow marking and are usually larger than yellow jackets. Their nests are gray or brown, football-shaped, and made of a paper material similar to that of yellow jackets' nests. Hornets' nests are usually found high above ground on branches of trees, in shrubbery, on gables or in tree hollows.

Fire ants are reddish brown to black stinging insects related to bees and wasps. They build nests of dirt in the ground that may be quite tall (18 inches) in certain kinds of soil. Fire ants may attack with little warning: after firmly grasping the victim's skin with its jaws, the fire ant arches its back as it inserts its rear stinger into the skin. It then pivots at the head and may inflict multiple stings in a circular pattern. Fire ant venom often causes an immediate burning sensation.

Signs and symptoms of an insect bite result from the injection of venom or other substances into the skin. The venom triggers an allergic (immune) reaction. The severity of the reaction depends on the victim's sensitivity to the insect venom or substance.

Most reactions are mild, causing little more than an annoying itching or stinging sensation and mild swelling that disappear within a day or so. A delayed reaction may cause fever, painful joints, hives and swollen glands. A worker can experience both immediate and delayed reactions from the same bite or sting.

Emergency Care for Victims with Mild Reactions

Move to a safe area to avoid more insect stings. Scrape or brush off the stinger with a straight edged object, such as a credit card or the back of a knife. Don't try to pull out the stinger with tweezers or with fingers.

- Wash the area carefully with soap with water.
- Do this two to three times a day until the skin heals.
- Swab the site with disinfectant.
- To reduce pain and swelling, apply ice or a cold pack.
- Apply 0.5 percent or 1 percent hydrocortisone cream, calamine lotion, or a baking soda paste to the bite or sting several times a day until the symptoms subside.
- Take an antihistamine containing diphenhydramine or chlorpheniramine maleate.

Emergency Care for Victims with Severe Reactions

Severe reactions may progress rapidly. Dial 911 or call for emergency medical assistance if the worker experiences any of the following signs or symptoms:

- difficulty breathing;
- swelling of the lips or throat;
- faint;
- confusion;
- rapid heartbeat;

- hives; or
- nausea, stomach cramps, and vomiting.
- A sting anywhere in the mouth warrants immediate attention

While Waiting for Emergency Transportation

- have the person lie down;
- watch for and treat signs of shock;
- if the person is unconscious and breathing, lay the person on his or her side to allow drainage from the mouth; if there's no pulse, begin cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR); and
- check to see if the person is carrying an allergy kit containing injectable epinephrine and follow instructions on the kit.

Less severe allergic reactions include mild nausea and stomach cramps, diarrhea, or swelling larger than 2 inches in diameter at the site. Recommend the worker see their physician promptly if they experience any of these signs and symptoms.

Remember that injectable epinephrine is rescue medication only, and the worker must still have someone take them to an emergency room immediately if they are stung. Additional medical treatment may be necessary. Workers with severe allergies may want to consider wearing a special bracelet or necklace that identifies the wearer as having severe allergies and supplies other important medical information.

Preventing Stings

Stay out of the "territory" of the stinging insects' nests. These insects are most likely to sting if their homes are disturbed, so it is important to have hives and nests around the workplace destroyed. Since this activity can be dangerous, a trained exterminator should be hired.

If a worker encounters flying stinging insects, instruct them to remain calm and quiet, and move slowly away from them. Many stinging insects are foraging for food, so don't smell like a flower – avoid brightly colored clothing and perfume when outdoors. Because the smell of food attracts insects, be careful when cooking, eating, or drinking sweet drinks like soda or juice outdoors. Keep food covered until eaten. Wear closed-toe shoes outdoors. Also, avoid loose-fitting garments that can trap insects between material and skin.
